

Fall 2007 - EcoLunch

Fridays 12 noon – 403 WI DB - Bring your lunch

- 07 September No EcoLunch this first week
- 14 September Peter Unmack – Extensive introgression between Australian rainbow fish species – how do they do it?
- 21 September Laura Scott – The ecology and economy of mentoring undergraduates – are you fit for it?
- 28 September Biology Grad Students – Natural history blitz! Ten 5-minute vignettes highlighting amazing places visited by grad students over the last year
- 05 October Nikki Hanegan - AI DSI: Authentic Inquiry Development for Science Improvement
- 12 October Sam St.Clair (BYU Plant and Wildlife Science Department) – Aspen in its western range: tiptoeing through the minefield
- 19 October Josh Rasmussen – When to leave home and why? Questions in animal emigration
- 26 October Jack Sites – Species and speciation: some things to consider
- 02 November Shawn Miller (BYU History Department) – Stilt-root subsistence: mangrove conflicts and conservation in colonial Brazil
- 09 November Mark Belk – Density dependent demography in June suckers: why publishing after just one year of data collection would be misleading
- 16 November Eric Billman – Are life histories a single point or multivariate trajectory?
- 23 November No EcoLunch – University Thanksgiving Holiday
- 30 November Brian Hamilton – Small mammal ecology in Great Basin National Park
- 07 December Alicia Toon – Crayfish downunder: phylogeography and molecular dating