

Fall 2008 – EcoLunch

Fridays 12 noon – 403 WI DB - Bring your lunch

- 12 September     Scott Peat – Where’s the ecology in ‘molecular ecology’?
- 19 September     Jack Sites – Island biogeography of Galapagos lava lizards (Microlophus): species diversity and colonization of the archipelago
- 26 September     Arley Camargo - Phylogeography of the Liolaemus darwini complex based on multiple mitochondrial and nuclear DNA markers
- 03 October         Rick Gill - Mount St. Helen’s: 25 years of recovery
- 10 October         Byron Daynes, Political Science Department, BYU - Presidential power in green: or is the glass half-filled?
- 17 October         Greg Courtney, Iowa State University – From Annapurna South to South Carolina: biotic inventory of ‘rare’ aquatic flies
- 24 October         Duke Rogers – Field based studies of Mexican rodents: phylogeny and disease
- 31 October         Justin Bagley – Taxonomic implications of nuclear microsatellites, mitochondrial cytochrome b, and body shape variation among Alabama spotted bass (Micropterus punctulatus henshalli) and other black basses
- 07 November       Riley Nelson - Insects on the edge of the middle of nowhere: surveys in Mongolia and the South Pacific
- 14 November       Double Header: Mariana Last – What do you get when you have a graduate student, steep slopes, and Waxy Dogbane?
Silvana Sede – Studies in the Galactia-Camptosema-Collaea complex (Leguminosae)
- 21 November       No EcoLunch – Cancelled due to College Faculty/Staff Meeting with President Samuelson
- 28 November       No EcoLunch – Thanksgiving Holiday
- 05 December       Alan Harker, Associate Dean, College of Life Sciences, BYU – TBA